POLICEMEN AND AUTO THIEF DIE IN PISTOL TILT

Darkness Mantles Triple Slaying In North-side Chicago Alley In Mystery.

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)—Darkness mantled a triple slaying early today in a north side alley with no witness left to tell what happened, except a mystery girl who fled in horror before the roar of the last revolver shot had died away.

Two policemen shot it out with an automobile thief and the three were killed. The deadly accuracy of their aim was shown by the fact that all but one of the seven shots fired found their mark. The single wild shot was fired by the robber.

The policemen dead are Sergeant Thomas Keohoe, 52, and Patrolman James Farley, 32. The robber was identified as an old offender.

Bodies of the policemen were found on a lawn in North Rockwell street. Keohoe was found with a bullet through the temple and another in the back. Farley had been shot in the stomach and chest but was living when police reserves arrived.

"There was a woman in the car with him," Farley gasped. "She ran." At the hospital before he died, Farley said he was sure he had wounded the robber. Police returned to the place and found the man's body. He had been shot in the heart and the abdomen. The end of his trigger finger had been shot away probably by the bullet that entered his abdomen.

EARLIER MAIL DELIVERY HERE BEING SOUGHT

Propose To Have Mail Brought From Harrisburg Terminal In Early Morning By Auto.

A movement to facilitate mail delivery in Gettysburg, with the aid of the motor car, as an improvement over the slower train delivery from terminal points, has been launched locally and may result in eventually providing the average Gettysburg citizen an opportunity to read the morning newspaper over the breakfast table, and permit business places to get an earlier start on last minute rush orders.

It is pointed out that most of the mail delivered to boxes in the post office after 10 o'clock in the morning, and started out from the office by carriers at the same hour, might be distributed by 7:30 o'clock to the boxes and sent out by carriers at the same hour, on the first morning delivery to homes, by merely arranging to have the mail brought from Harrisburg by motor car.

Gettysburg is still getting the same sort of mail delivery service from terminal points by slow train that it received before the advent of automobiles and with the office recently advanced to the first class, through the support of local business people, it is pointed out that the postoffice department at Washington ought to consider more efficient delivery of first class matter from terminals to the Gettysburg office, which is enjoyed by many nearby towns where the lousiness of the office is not any heavier than here.

Practically all the mail from all four directions coming into Gettysburg in the morning reaches Harrisburg by four o'clock a. m. and could readily be picked up there in sacks at 4:30 or 5 o'clock by a man in a motor car and brought to Gettysburg by six o'clock easily; the same mail that now gets here on the Philadelphia and Reading train about 10 o'clock in the morning. It would be distributed immediately by the staff at the local post office. The parcel post mail could continue to come in on the train and be distributed upon arrival here.

It is pointed out that Waynesboro, for instance, gets its mail delivered to the local office early in the morning, being taken from an early Cumberland Valley train at Greencastle and hauled to Waynesboro by automobile. There are many other towns receiving similar service.

Postoffice authorities locally are very much in favor of the proposal to have the mail brought here by motor earlier in the morning and can be depended upon to use their influence with the department at Washington to bring about the improvement in the service.

"This is a service Gettysburg is certainly entitled to, and I am very much in favor of making every effort to bring it about," C. William Beales, druggist and former postmaster of Gettysburg, said today when the proposal was presented to him by a Times reporter. Mr. Beales, along with The Gettysburg Times, R. G. Mumma, local newspaper dealer, and other Gettysburg business people, is writing letters to the postoffice department at Washington, through the local postmaster, urging the improvement. All other business people desiring to bring about the change are requested, and urged, to write letters of a similar nature, addressed either to the Gettysburg postmaster or the postmaster general at Washington.

Lind's Gift Mail Brings Everything From Diamond Plane to Fish Hooks

Armored Cars Ordered For Rest of Packages As St. Louis Prepares to Display Them—Scores Ask Job As Flier's Secretary, But Mash Notes Are Few.

St. Louis, June 23.—(AP)—An exquisitely cut diamond airplane, patent fish hooks, a silver loving cup, soaps, lotions, toy airplanes, liniments, gold medals and scores of other gifts which Colonel Lindbergh has received were being opened today.

The colonel accepted his second gift automobile, a sports sedan. He previously accepted a roadster.

The more valuable gifts were being unpacked in the safe deposit vaults of the Mississippi Valley Trust company, to be placed on display, under heavy guard, at Jefferson Memorial building in Forest park.

Two armored trucks were ordered to haul additional gifts still at the post office.

A valuation of $150,000 was placed on the gifts sent from Paris by express. In Colonel Lindbergh's mail were candy, books, pajamas, overalls and religious medals. Offers of gifts included several from brick manufacturing firms of material to build a home.

Children and others with a talent for drawing sent paintings and sketches of how they imagined the Spirit of St. Louis looked in its flight across the Atlantic, and there were many drawings of the colonel.

Among those who wrote Lindbergh were United States senators, governors, prison inmates, hospital patients, post office employees and school children. Included were scores of applications from young men and women for the position of secretary to the colonel.

The comparative absence of "mash notes" was noted. The great majority offered congratulations in a dignified manner, and in only a few cases did girls ask for dates.

Included in the gifts to be on view are the decorations which the flier received in the United States and France, England and Belgium, a gold key to the city of London, a cup presented by the London Daily Mail and the diamond airplane presented by French fliers.

We guarantee Devoe Mirrolac Stains-in-Varnish to give true hard wood tones . .

SOMETIME ago we had the good fortune to witness 50 paint experts test 8 different makes of varnish stain. Mahogany, Dark Mahogany, Light Oak, Golden Oak, and Dark Oak were tested for color accuracy. And Devoe Mirrolac Varnish Stain was chosen as the line of colors which reproduced most closely their conception of the true hardwood tones.

FOR FISH AND BIRDS
For fish and birds I make this plea,
May they be here long after me,
May those who follow hear the call
Of old Bob White in spring and fall;
And may they share the joy that's mine
When there's a bass upon the line.

I found the world a wondrous place,
A cold wind blowing in my face
Has brought the wild ducks in from sea,
God grant the day shall never be
When youth upon November's shore
Shall see the mallards come no more!

I found the world a garden spot,
God grant the desolating shot
And barbed hook shall not destroy
Some future generations' joy!
Too barren were the earth for words
If gone were all the fish and birds.

Fancy an age that sees no more
The mallards winging into shore;
Fancy a youth with all its dreams
That finds no fish within the streams.
Our world with life is wondrous fair,
God grant we do not strip it bare!

FLY TOX

—the scientific insecticide that was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Drs. Research Fellowship

Now, there was an old redheaded Duck fishing from the bridge as Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit drove across in their Luckymobile, and because this old red-headed Duck was very deaf, he never heard them coming. Maybe if he had it wouldn't have made any difference. Nevertheless, suddenly feeling a bite, he jerked up his pole, and into the Luckymobile flopped a fish. But, goodness me! That wasn't all. No, siree! Something more and something worse happened. The hook caught the rim of dear Uncle Lucky's wedding stovepipe hat, and before the exasperated old gentleman rabbit could say something he shouldn't, off came that precious tile.

"Codfish pies! Whose hat have I caught?" exclaimed the old red-headed Duck. But when he turned around and saw Uncle Lucky's shiny bald head, he knew all right.

"I beg your pardon," stammered the old red-headed duck fisherman, and unhooking the hat, he handed it back to the old gentleman rabbit man.

"Here's your fish. It must have dropped off the hook," laughed Uncle Lucky, who could never stay angry more than a jiffy.

"I pray you, keep the fish. If you wish, Mr. Rabbit. Today, I think, is Friday. And you should have the habit Of eating fish on Friday, And other week days, too. But if you don't like white fish You'd better take a Blue; Perhaps a bright Red Herring, Or a nice hot oyster stew," poetically answered the duck fisherman.

"Thank you," said Uncle Lucky. "As I'm very patriotic, hereafter I shall certainly eat the red, white and blue fish you mention," and putting on his precious old hat, he drove away with his bunny nephew to Carrot City, where there was a big grocery store, kept by a small, fat pig.

"What do you ask for your carrots?" inquired the old gentleman bunny.

"Dollar a bushel," grunted the Grocery Store Pig, rubbing his side against the wooden counter.

"Dump them in the car," answered dear Uncle Lucky, peeling a Lettuce Leaf Dollar Bill off a big roll he carried in his cantail pocket. Then with a honk of the horn to warn a little squirrel to get out of the way, Uncle Lucky started homeward. And as he neared his red-shingled house he suddenly remembered that Little Miss Mousie had promised to leave an apple pie on the kitchen table. But, Oh dear me! As he and his bunny nephew were eating it, somebody peeped in at the window,—through the little crack between the bottom of the shade and the sill, you know,—and when this somebody saw who was in the kitchen, he gave a chuckle and lifted up the window. And, Oh dear me! again. When the two little rabbits tried to hide in the cupboard they couldn't, for the door was locked and Uncle Lucky didn't remember that he had put the key in his waistcoat pocket. And in the next story you shall hear what Hooty Tooty Owl did, for it was he who had suddenly shouted "WHO O O O!"

HOW CAN WOMEN KEEP WELL ENOUGH TO GET UP SINGING?

MRS. BELLE THOMPSON
3101 E. 44TH ST., EAST LAKE, TENN.

Springtime streamed in through the open windows. The green fields of Georgia were basking in the sunshine. Somewhere a bird was trilling. It was a day to be happy.

But the pale woman at the table sighed and pushed away her plate. Nothing tasted right. She couldn't eat much. She couldn't sleep well, either. She was so weak, it was hard to do her work. When the baby cried, she wanted to cry, too.

She had not been well for four years. Her husband watched her with a man's helpless expression. But his mother knew a remedy.

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, 3101 E. 44th St., East Lake, Tenn., "told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

Another Happy Woman

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little book you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. JESSIE BOLLERMAN, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KIND GHOSTS OF THE PAST

SOMETIMES I think that the only real things are those of the past. The present is too brilliant, whereas the past becomes intermingled with the richness of test and trial.

The old suit of clothes or the old shoes—they have faithfully served you along paths that looked so full of danger, distress and darkness.

The old home—a place of silent memories full of sweetness and sacred events.

Your childhood—a sealed chamber of beauty, dreams and frolics. School—that place where youth asked no pilot but beamed with its own ruddy lust for play and health, joy and rest, its body tired from excess of play.

That hour in the woods, that swim in the pond, that sunny day when you felt that you were going to be drowned—but weren't. That sleep upon the rocks, high upon the sides of the mighty mountain, that meadow with its concert of song from the throats of a score of birds, that orchard ripe in fruit, that bubbling spring that you discovered after the long day of tramping in the hot sun—Oh, those kind ghosts of the past, sweeter than any event of today!

What pages from the book of memory, what deathless lessons in the school of life.

How the kind ghosts of the past talk to us when we are lonely, buffeted and battled about by the uncaring throng.

Don't you recall how the great God leaned over and whispered to you as the leaves fluttered about you and the gentle wind cooled the brow, wet from the weary tramp?

What we are is what we have been in the past. What the world is to you is what it taught you from what you saw in it and took as a priceless heritage.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatism, twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then get fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.—adv.
